A NEW AND ELEGANT OTSTER SALOON IN

AND HARVEY, at the urgent and repeated solicitations of his numerous friends, has this day opened one at No. 189, Nine-teenth and H streets, adjoining the Union Engine House, and fronting Pennsylvania avenue. It will be conducted as a Branch of HARVEY'S celebrated Steamed Oyster Depot. by and the finest Oysters which the waters of the Chesapeake afford will be sold to their patzons.

Families can be supplied daily at their residences with raw or steamed oysters of the best quality.

Arrangements have been made for a daily fresh supply equal to any demand; and hence residents of the First Ward, as well as those in other sections of the city, will not hereafter be subjected to the necessity of buying from street hawkers.

Orders are respectfully solicited, and will be promptly complied with, day or night.

Visitors to this new establishment will find it worthy of liberal patronage, as neither pains nor expense have been or will be spared to make it so is every respect.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 6 .- The Louisville and Nashville railroad is now taking freight to Mitchells ville, and it is supposed that the entire road will be in running order by the 14th inst. The rebels are reported as having crossed from Tennessee, with a large foraging train into Whitely county, Ky., to forage that county and along the Cumberland river. Steps have been taken to prevent this outrage on loyal mountaineers, to stop the rebels from procuring their subsistence in Kentucky, and to stop contraband trade in the State.

A man calling himself John W. Lee, from Knoxville, Tenn., pretending to be loyal, has been arrested by Gen. Boyle. He had over $100,000 with him, which was taken, and is held for the action of the authorities at Washington. Lee says the money belongs to loval parties in Augusta, Georgia. The military authorities think there is something fraudulent or wrong in the matter. Gen. Boyle has sent to Cairo, for transportation to Vicksburg, 1,700 retel prisoners captured by Gen. HAVEE DE GRACE, Nov. 7 .- [Dispatch to the old regiments rather than forming new; but Baltimore American.] The one o'clock train from Baltimore to-day, whilst being run on the ferry-boat, owing to the heavy incline of the drop, caused by the low tide in the river and the slippery state of the track, could not be checked before one car full of passengers run half way over the end of the boat, where it fortunately hung. A few feet more and all would have been precipitated into the water. The accident delayed the train several hours.

THE FIGHT NEAR ALDIE. CANP NEAR CHANTILLY, Va., Nov. 1, 1862 .-Editor Star : I send you a short account of the little fight that occurred in our front, near Aldie, on yesterday afternoon, in which the "First Jersey" took its usual share. The 1st cavalry brigade, in two demi-brigades -one consisting of the 1st Pennsylvania Cavalry, the 10th New York Cavalry and a section of Schirmer's Mounted Battery, being under Colonel Jones, of the 1st Pennsylvania; the other composed of the 1st New Jersey Cavalry, the ad New York (Harris Light) Cavalry and another section of artillery, under command of our Lieut. Colonel, the brave Joseph Karge-had been s weeping the country from Aldie to Upper. ville, driving in the enemy's pickets and taking a few prisoners. After doing this for two days, en the 31st we were in biyonac a short distance east of Aldie. Part of the 1st Rhode Island Cavalry, belonging to General Stoneman's command, by some inconceivable carelessness, allowed the enemy to surprise them, with their horses unsaddled and their arms laid aside; and the first intelligence that we received of any hostile force being in the neighborhood was brought by fugitives rushing past us in disorder.

Karge immediately had his force under arms, and in five minutes the 1st Jersey were pushing through the town, led by Major Beaumoni, where our pickets, under Captain Kester, were holding the enemy in check. Our fellows charged fiercely upon the rebelled arms of discussions. charged fiercely upon the rebeladvance, driving it back upon their reserve, and turning the bend of the reserve back in confusion. Having thus secured a good position beyond the town, the Jerseys formed at the foot of a hill, deployed skirmishers regularly, and kept the rebels in check. In the mean time, Colonel Karge brought up the Harris Light and formed them as a reserve. The enemy were visible along the Snickersville road as far as theeye could reach, and they had already deployed strong columns on both sides of the road, in the woods and fields. The rebels made vigorous efforts to drive us fram our position, three several times attempting to deploy in a cornfield to our left; and three several times our skirmishers dashed right into them, and drove them back in disorder, with loss. After holding the ground for three quarters of an hour, with cavalry alone. under a heavy fire of round shot, grape and shrappel, we succeeded in bringing our section into position, and inflicted further damage upon the enemy, who were unable to do anything with their strong force against the front shown by our few men-the whole demi-brigade at that time numbering only seven hundred and fifty men. About an hour before sunset, Colonel Karge received an order from Brigadier General Bayard to fall back. The Colonel, however, held the ground until nightfall, when the rebel infantry, slowly pushing along the wooded hill sides, were gradually flanking us. Our men then withdrew in splendid order, a force of carbineers remaining in the town until the General sent them a peremptory order to fall back. The object of the reconnoissance having been already accomplished, we returned to camp that evening, having only eleven men killed, wounded and missing. Captain Sawyer, while leading the skirmishers with his usual toldness, was painfully, but not dangerously wounded. Sergeant Whitfield Lann, of company K, was hit in the same manner. Orderly Sergeant Louis Fahs, of compan H, was killed while doing his duty gallantly. Adjutant Vitchen, though it was his first field, won high credit by his coolness and intelligence, as acting aid to Lieut. Colonel Karge. Captains Lucas
